- No tolerance policy in dorms
- Not having upper class dorms
- Hard grading – feel like my work isn't good enough sometimes
- Classes before 10 AM
- No lockers
- Pre Calculus teacher
- Not enough language courses
- Have to know material before walking into class
- We don't start all classes with a prayer
- Lack of males (to female ratio)
- Commute in
- Far walk
- Overpriced
- Need to have more activities in student lounge
- Rickety fan in my room
- The mascot
- It's hot
- Check in system at the dorms
- Need more athletics
- Not much of a college atmosphere
- Exams
- Short classes
- Boring classes
- Different style of learning from high school
- Taking the bus home everyday
- Paperwork
- Bunk beds
- Courses are sometimes confusing.
- I have no friends out of class.
- "Catholic" faith school but there is no bible studies, prayer groups, evangelistic efforts. I feel like this is what won me over in choosing a college. Yet, I feel so scared to share my faith even in front of Catholics. Isn't the school motto "Vita in verbo", to live in the word? Then why is there little effort of this? I really don't see this value in anybody at this school.
